

ALGONQUIANS

When the Pilgrims landed in America, they met the Algonquians. The Algonquians were a tribe of Indians living in the Northeast when the Pilgrims arrived. They only hunted as much as they needed. They hunted deer, moose, bear and beaver. While the men hunted, the women planted the harvest and the children played many fun games like baseball. The Algonquians were very helpful and taught the Pilgrims how to survive in the new world.

Sources:

Massachusetts Study Weekly